INDEX OF PEOPLE – SURNAMES AND TITLES

First names are given only if they are included in the text. The majority of surnames are without Christian names and are prefixed with an aristocratic, professional, clerical or secular title. In a few cases only the first name, sometimes with nickname, is known. In other cases there is duplication of surnames when only one has a Christian name; in that case the surname is mostly only listed once.

No attempt has been made to reconstruct surnames not given in full for reasons of taste and discretion, i.e. Lord W---, or P---ns---by, even if they may seem obvious. They are not included in the index.

Of these, one is a fictional character; others may also be so; it is difficult to be sure. Obvious name inventions, mostly Christian names (i.e. Pat, Teddy; Teague is used both as a name and synonym for Irishman), are excluded.
